Graduation

ROCHESTER HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATION 1998 by Martha Slater

Although wet weather on Saturday, June 13th forced Rochester High School's Class of 1998 to forgo the traditional outdoor graduation ceremony on the park, and hold theirs in the RHS Auditorium instead, all of the other traditional elements were still present: the strains of Pomp and Circumstance, flashing cameras, speeches, awards, the presentation of diplomas, tasselturning, tears, and laughter; and as Class Marshalls Dylan Waller and Rita Thompson led the Class of '98 down the aisles of the auditorium to their seats up on the stage, there were the traditional sights of graduates with big smiles, graduates looking nervous, and graduates watching their feet to keep in step!

Following a welcome by Principal Ilene Levitt, there was a short speech of greetings from Eugene Smith, representing the RHS Class of 1948. All thirteen surviving members of that class (some who had traveled from as far away as Texas and California) were in town and present at the graduation ceremony to celebrate their 50-year class reunion. Mr. Smith noted that during their four years at RHS, the Class of 1948 christened the school sports teams the "Rockets" and "Rockettes," and began the yearbook.

Up next was Class of '98 Salutatorian, Crystal Roberts, who reminisced about the many things her class had experienced during their growing up years, often drawing chuckles of recognition from her listeners. She noted that her classmates were "survivors---we don't give up!"

Raina Lambert's Valedictory address focused on her belief that the small size of Rochester High School had been beneficial to her education. "I got a lot of personal attention that helped me to develop my creativity," she said, noting that her experience with her film study class and senior project had helped her to decide on a career in film making. "In a small school like Rochester High School, you can develop strong bonds with your teachers and other students, and have opportunities that aren't possible in larger schools," she added, citing the chance she was given to play basketball during her senior year, and all of the help and encouragement she was given.

The National Anthem was sung by Rachel Stringer; Kevin Dougherty administered the Voter's Oath to many of the graduates; and then it was time for the announcement of awards by class advisors, Susan

It was announced that at the Athletic Awards Night last week, Bobbi-Jo Bowen had won the Roxanne Curtis-Bowen Award and Eric Holtz had won the Damian Sleath Memorial Award. Bobbi-Jo also won the William Kent Award, the Bethel Rotary Scholarship, the Upper Valley teacher's Association Award, the White River Credit Union Scholarship, the Rodney Johnson Memorial Award; and a White River Valley Players Award; as well as being a co-winner of a Wing Scholarship and the Route 100 Lion's Club Award. Teddy Smith won the Martin Farms Appreciation Award and the Joe Prelas Memorial Award. Rachel Stringer won the Inner Traditions "Go For It" Award, the Oatmeal Studios Award, the Music Award, and the Stephen Bloch Memorial Scholarship; as well as being a co-winner of a Wing Scholarship and the Route 100 Lions Club Award.

The George F. Johnson Council Knights of Columbus Scholarship was awarded to Raina Lambert, who also won the John Baker Memorial Scholarship, and a White River Valley Players Award; as well as being a co-winner of a Wing Scholarship. Levi Clarke won the Kyle Joseph Lizotte Award and the Alice Smith Award. Francis Richardson was the winner of the Student Council Award and the Marie Crovat Award, as well as a co-winner of a Wing Scholarship. De'Lena Merriam and Elwin Twitchell were the winners of Special Faculty Awards. Nicole

Del Bove won the Edwin Harvey Memorial Award. Dean Pierce was a co-winner of a Wing Scholarship. Crystal Roberts was the winner of the Conceptions Unlimited Award and the Elizabeth Ann Murray Award. Charlie Bowen won the Court Saint Anthony #1231 Catholic Daughters Scholarship. Sharon Leno was the winner of the Service Award. Eric Belanger won the Tim "Tootles" Billings Award. Jamie Reed was the winner of the Kirkpatrick Memorial Scholarship. Eric Holtz won the Dick Hubbard Service Award.

Sharon Leno introduced the commencement speaker, State Senator Cheryl Rivers, who joked that "I wanted to write the Gettysburg Address for you, but somehow I think I fell short!" She noted that high school graduation was "a time of life when the possibilities seem limitless and daunting but this group of graduates has something going for them that's more valuable than all the stocks on the New York Stock Exchange---they have a strong community behind them." She urged the graduates "don't wait to give back to your community....the fabric of our community is made richer by those who become involved. Democracy is not a spectator sport! The future of our country depends upon an involved citizenry." Senator Rivers ended with this advice: "You all have dreams and talents, but remember that there is no substitute for hard work and persistence....Success is failure turned inside out."

Diplomas were presented by Ms. Levitt and Rochester School Board Chairman, Becky Donnet. After Elwin Twitchell led his classmates in the turning of the tassels, the RHS Class of 1998 head up the aisles and into their futures.

The graduates of the Rochester High School Class of 1998 are: Eric R. Belanger, Charles T. Bowen, Bobbi-Jo Bowen, Nieve A. Castro, Levi D. Clarke, Nicole Del Bove, Eric E. Holtz, Raina S.J. Lambert, Sharon M. Leno, Leslie G. McIntyre, De'Lena M. Merriam, Dean T. Pierce, Francis D. Richardson, Jamie K. Reed, Crystal Roberts, Lyndsay Rondelli, Theodore Smith, Rachel E. Stringer, and Elwin R. Twitchell.

The Varsity Girls' football (soccer) team posted an even .500 record this season and progressed to the quarter-finals of the knockout competition, before falling "afoul" (ho ho) of Wilmington, the eventual Division IV champions. There was plenty of quality, exciting play along the way, with a mix of high and low points.

Among the highs was senior against Rachel scoring the Rockettes' season-opening goal in front of a home crowd against Williamstown. Freshman Kathleen McLoughlin scored a hat trick when we visited Williamstown later in the year, while Krystle Clarke, another freshman, scored both goals in a tremendous way tie game against Division III Thetford Academy. And in what could be billed as "the year of the freshman," Amanda Wilber scored her first (and second) goal(s) in the Rochester shirt. To round out the year, co-captain and senior Bobbi-Jo Bowen became Rochester's first female soccer player to be named to the Teinstate team as first reserve, following an intensive day of try-outs on a (very) chilly November day. Junior co-captain Alicia Gendron joined Bobbi-Jo as Rochester's second All-State player for her consistently high quality performances.

But the season was not without its share of sadness and drama. Junior Sarah Blair never kicked a ball in anger this season due to an ACL problem that ultimately required surgery. Rachel Stringer missed the later half of the season with cracked ribs, and Catrina Holtz broke her hand while playing in goal at Blue Mountain (the type of injury that cramps your style as a goalkeeper). Other injuries included concussions, sprains, cuts and one that ought not be printed (BJ knows what I mean!). All in all it read more like a hockey team sick roster than football, but "them's the breaks!"

For all the ups and downs, this was a team of winners with regard to playing the game the way it was meant to be played: with flair, passion, skill, and resiliency. To a player, Rochester has reason to be proud of the way these talented young athletes represented themselves, their school, their community, and the beautiful game.

This years 97-98 girls' basketball team consisted of senior captains, Rachel Stringer and Bobbi-Jo Bowen, and senior Raina Lambert, juniors Alicia Gendron and Sarah Blair, sophomores Heather Klein, Stephanie Zappulla, and Jess Matthews, freshmen: Amanda Holtz, Kathleen McLoughlin, Krystle Clarke, and Amanda Wilber.

The girl's basketball team record was 16-6, which is a good improvement from last year. Throughout the whole season there was spirit in all the girls. Each player improved in her positions from the beginning of the year to the end. The girls ended their season in the quarterfinals in a tough game against the Websterville Warriors.

This year's basketball team was made up of many great talents. Rachel used her height to rip down offensive rebounds and putting the ball back up for another two points on our scoreboard. She was also a great defensive rebounder and improved on dribbling out of trouble.

Bobbi-Jo was our point guard. She was a quick and experienced dribbler who penetrated the seams to put another two points on our board. She also had a great three pointer when she wasn't assisting the other girls.

Alicia was a good all-around team player. When a point guard was needed Alicia was always there. She was also a great defensive rebounder against the height of the other girls.

Sarah was our status keeper. I don't think she could have been more accurate. She was also our loudest fan.

Heather played underneath, boxing out and working on her jump shot. She improved playing against the "big girls" and driving to the net.

Stephanie worked under the basket and improved on her spinaround move to the basket. She was a strong sub who was there when needed.

Jess was a good defensive player. Whenever a shot was put up Jess crashed the boards, boxed out, and got a lot of good rebounds.

Kathleen had a great shot "with awesome back spin." She was fast on defense, and when a ball was stolen Kathleen was the first down the court to put up the lay-up.

Krystle worked hard underneath against the "big girls." She had a great offensive move to penetrate the seams.

Amanda H. became a heads-up player. She had a great jump shot right outside the paint. She improved a lot in her dribbling and will be very effective next year.

Amanda W. was a fast offensive and defensive player. She improved on her dribbling and her foul shots from the start.

"We are losing two seniors this year, but I think the underclassmen can fill their shoes," says coach Long. Next year's team will be a young team, but with the talent that is here, it will be another good season for the Rochester Rockettes.

This year's boy's varsity basketball team, not surprisingly, did quite well throughout the entire season. What the team lacked was numbers, they made up for with a combination of height, skill, and especially, vigor. Senior Dean Pierce and junior Will Chadwick have strongly established themselves as "the big men" of Division IV. Will has become an excellent foul shooter and has recently been using a nice jump shot. Down low he can make some incredible moves, and of course he has quite jump. Dean is just an all-around good player. Not only can he rip down rebounds, but he's exceptional dribbler and even had a good three point shot. The other senior on the team, Levi Clarke, is the team's point guard. Levi has a real effective drive through the lane but can also make an amazing pass without thinking about it. Dean and Levi will both be moving up to the college-level of play next year, and both of them will do very well there too. Junior Trevor Klein, one of the team's wing players, has really stepped up this season. He has been working on his three point shot which is coming along nicely. Trevor, though not real tall, will still get his share of rebounds with a pretty impressive jump. Junior Paul Collins, the other starting wing, has also stepped up from last season. Paul is finally starting to shoot now, and he's getting on the boards. He is also a good rebounder. He has a good eye for the ball and just homes in on it. Rochester's sixth man, freshman Evan Chadwick, saw a lot of minutes this year. Evan played a little bit of everything. He is big enough to stand out down low but also has a nice outside shot.

This year the team went all the way to the finals. They played a great game but their opponent, Blue Mountain played a better one. Blue Mountain hit a lot of threes in the beginning and Rochester just never recovered.

Coach Downs imparts words of wisdom

This year's baseball team did quite well. Their record at the end of the regular season was 4-11. The boys showed a lot of effort and teamwork on the bench and off, the eleven players had a positive attitude and an open mind. The captains, seniors Eric Holtz and Fran Richardson and junior Trevor Klein did a great job of encouraging the team in good times and bad.

A lot of effort went into the 15 games that were played. Most of the many times junior Willie Richardson got walked. Along with that junior Jesse Mitchell had humorous comments throughout the game, eighth grader Josh Rhoades hit a triple the first time he was at bat, junior Trevor Klein's lead off home run against South Royalton and junior Paul Collins' amazing ability to be exceedingly casual when it came to catching fly balls. One of the most exciting times was when Captain Eric Holtz made the winning hit against Chelsea.

All of this made a very memorable season for us!

Waiting to bat

games were cut short due to the mercy rule but the effort was always there. The first win came against Bethel and the energy level in the air was electric. At the beginning of the fifth inning the score was Rochester 5, Bethel 0. Coach Harv Downs asked Trevor Klein to say something encouraging to the team. What he said was "In case you haven't noticed we are really playing like a ball team." This psyched up the players and they ended their first victory with a five run lead.

The team's sportsmanship has really shown through this year. There was a situation when a team from out of town made abusive comments towards our players. The opposing team was penalized for their foul behavior. None of the Rochester players or spectators commented back which showed true sportsmanship.

There were a lot of highlights from this season. Sophomore Brian McIntyre getting hit by wild pitches many times, sophomore Trevor Smolen getting confused with the rules of batting, plus the

This year the middle school basketball team was headed by a new coach, Tim Dunham. He worked with the girls in many different areas including endurance, defense and inboundng. The squad was made up predominantly of seventh graders, two sixth graders and an eighth grader. Because the team was very young, the girls didn't win any games, but they had a couple of close calls and had fun trying. The team members really stuck with the sport and are sure to show promise for the future.

"The Perfect Burger", The Perfect Class, The perfect Year

It snowed...and it wasn't supposed to...there was no director when we started...people were missing...It was really, really cold...and it snowed...which it wasn't supposed to do (in the script.)

The Film Studies class set out on Sunday, April 5th to create a short film that was to be viewed sometime in early June, towards the end of school. Although at the time, the screenplay remained nameless, being called "Redneck Rampage", it soon became well known throughout Rochester as "The Perfect Burger", a student written movie co-directed and Executively produced by Paul Dicken, the Film Studies teacher.

Waiting around for some action

"We encountered about every problem that movie makers could encounter, and for those of us who were in for the first time...lets just say it was interesting...but it was always fun" says Julia Reed. "The snow and cold weather couldn't have been more appropriate for Vermont. It was a big challenge...not so much the snow, but the fact that everyone was so unbearably cold that it was hard to do anything more than shiver. It was like we were being asked 'oh yeah? How MUCH do you want this to happen?'"

Obviously, the whole class wanted it and it became a success. By sunset, everyone was tired and ready to go home, but there was still more to be done. "We had to compromise on some of the shots, like the hoe-down. We wanted that to be outside being filmed as the sun set, but we only really had one day to do the whole thing, so as the sun set and we remained filming away at Chesapeake, we realized that the hoe down was not going to happen."

By the end of the night, students left with a feeling of accomplishment. The next step was to edit and plan the big night in which this movie would be screened...Premier night.

The senior lounge was transformed into the entrance way of a Hollywood Premier. The students put on their top hats and prom dresses to welcome the crowd that would pack the auditorium. The piano intro started and the crowd oohed and awed at the beautifully dressed students. "It was a night to remember" agrees everyone.

"Once in a while we all need the chance to be a kid, and to see that a job can be fun." Says Teacher Paul Dickin. "Making movies is a very cool way to make a living, with so much career scope that there are realistic options for lots of different talents. The film studies class is designed to let students explore and learn and create 'art' and have fun. If you missed 'The Perfect Burger', I'd suggest you rent it from the Video Vanguard. It's a fine testament to the hard work of a lot of talented young people."

Acting in this movie was Trevor Smolen as Cleatus, Justine Calnin as Betsy Lou, Francis Richardson as the "Evil Clown", Eric Holtz as Jed, Amanda Wilber as Billy Mae, Nickey Dragan as "The Old Woman", and Amanda Holtz and Stephanie Zappulla as the Henchwomen.

One-Act Plays

She Who Says Yes: Amanda Wilber, Shelly Jesso, Emma Mendell, Roy Kinsley

When Shakespeare's Ladies Meet: Jess Mathews, Catrina Holtz, Heather Klein, Justine Calnan, Erica Blomquist, Raina Lambert

On Monday, November 24, students at Rochester High School participated in the traditional One-Act Plays. For the sixth year running, Mrs. Gephart is taking her play to the Regional Festival in March.

As in the past, we have had three plays with three directors, drama teacher Ethan Bowen and English teachers, Mr. Goupee and Ms. Gephart.

Ethan Bowen had a very different play from the traditional comedies in the past years: She Who Says Yes, by Bertolt Brecht. The small cast of Amanda Wilber, Shelley Jesso, Coryanna Lynam, Emily Mendell and Roy Kinsley did a marvelous job. Amanda Wilber played a child. She went on a journey over the mountains, to help find a cure for a disease the town had. Coryanna Lynam was the teacher who led the group, while Emily Mendell and Roy Kinsley acted as the "chorus." Shelly played the mother and also a member of the group who traveled over the mountain. This play had two different endings to an ethical dilemma. The dilemma was that the girl wasn't strong enough to make the journey over the mountain. Should they turn back and let the girl live or go onward and let the whole village die?

The first ending was to let the girl die. They had some conflicts between the group, but the majority of the actors wanted the girl to die. After the first ending, the actors asked the audience what they thought should happen. The audience chose to let her die and save the town. This was interesting way to end a play, asking the audience what to do.

When Shakespeare's Ladies Meet by Charles George was marvelously performed by Mr. Goupee's cast of ladies. This was a well-done hilarious parody on Shakespeare. The play began with all the ladies from Shakespearean plays coming to caution Juliet on the realities of love.

The actors played the famous characters very well. Justine Calnan played a hilarious Katharine, lover of Petruccio. Jess Matthews was Portia, who had many admirers who no but Juliet knew about. Raina Lambert played a dazed Ophelia, who had just broken up with her lover after he cheated on her. Catrina Holtz played Cleopatra from Egypt, coming to warn her friend of Romeo. Heather Klein had the starring role of Juliet. She did a marvelous job! The play was one of the best in years, and everyone enjoyed it.

Last but not least was Ms. Gephart's festival play, Drive-In. Drive-In starred Saran Blair, Evan Chadwick, Rachel Stringer, BobbiJo Bowen, Jeremy Clauson, Trevor Klein, and Eric Holtz. Sarah and Evan acted out the pressure you have when you go to the drive-in on a date, and both did a fantastic job.

Bobbi-Jo and Rachel played Laurie and Barb. Barb had just had a fight with her boyfriend and decided to have a girls night out. Barb's boyfriend Jim, played by Jeremy also decided to go to the drive-in with his guy friends, Chuck and Rob (Eric and Trevor). During an intermission, both of their friends went to the concession stand at the same time. There was a big screaming fit between Barb and Jim, and Barb went with Chuck in his car while Jim went with Laurie and Rob in Laurie's car.

This was another good play. Not one play that night was a disappointment, and the audience enjoyed them all.

CABARET

This Years Cabaret was said by many to be "the best Cabaret Rochester has ever had." The audience was so packed that many people were sitting in the aisles and standing in the back. The audience had a great time and times found themselves clapping along. This year for the first time ever students from Whitcomb High combined with the Rochester High students to create the show, which was held on Friday, March 20th. All of the hours they all out into it really paid off. The theme was based on the sun, moon, stars and funny little creatures that come from down from the sky.

The cast was made up of 21 girls and a Master of Ceremonies who was none-too-shy, crowd pleaser Rochester's 7th grader, Zach LeClair. The girls from Whitcomb were Heather E. White, Josie Rule, Kristen Morse, Heather White, Rachel Sennett, Ariel Cook, and Megan Alexander. The girls from Rochester were Stephanie Zappulla, Shannon Sargeant, Kristen Perry, Heather Klein, Krystle Clarke, Amanda Wilber, Rachel Stringer, Shelly Jesso, Amanda Holtz, Bobbi-Jo Bowen, Jamie Reed, Emily Mendell, Jenny Jacques, and Catrina Holtz.

The band members included Carol Chase on keyboards, Joe Schenkman on Bass and was also vocal for "Purple People Eater," Erica Blomquist on alto sax, Neal Cronce and Susan Rule on guitars, Pat Dougherty on percussions and Justine Calnan on clarinet and accordion.

Kevin Dougherty made and painted the floor design. Kristen Perry came up with designs on the tee-shirts and painted them all on the night before. They were glow-in-the-dark stars that showed up great with all the special lighting effects. Every girl's shirt was the same design just different color tee-shirts. Roy Kinsley and Julia Reed did the lighting, which included black lights for "Men in Black" and the strobe lights for "Twilight Zone."

Karen Amirault, the cast, and the directors Susan Rule and Carol Chase shared the choreographing. Karen choreographed "Men in Black," "Walkin' on the Sun," "Catch a Fallin' Star" and "Twilight Zone." She also choreographed, with a little help from the cast, "Shinnin'" and "I Sing the Boy Electric." The students from Whitcomb choreographed a huge part of "Close to You" and "Purple People Eater." The solo singing was the best that Cabaret has ever had. Each had great volume and did a wonderful job. Senior Rachel Stringer's "From a Distance" had the audience in tears because it was so dramatic and professional.

Rochester and Bethel students really proved that the two schools can get along and work well together. It was a great change from being rivals in sports to becoming good friends and coming up with a wonderful performance.

Winter Ball '98

When people think of the Rochester gym in January most probably usually think of basketball. However on Saturday January 17th, 1998 if people had walked into the gym thinking ythat they were going to see a game, they would have been pleasantly surprised. The gym was decorated for the Winter Ball with balloons, lights and streamers. It was very clear that the seniors spent a lot of time decorating the gym for this yearly event.

Everyone that attended was semi-formally dressed. Even though many were wearing dresses and dress shoes, that didn't stop them from boogying with the three-piece band, the Jesters. Nearly everyone danced from eight until midnight.

The Jesters played a variety of songs, from bands like Clearance Clearwater Revival to Greenday. They also took lots of requests and played whatever would keep the students dancing. They sounded awesome. Every one really enjoyed themselves and can't wait until next year's Winter Ball.

Also just to have fun, the seniors threw in a little surprise for everyone. Everyone that attended the ball was asked to nominate a King and Queen from the Senior Class. While the Jesters took a little break, the King and Queen were announced. The King was Eric Holtz and the Queen was Raina Lambert.

The winter ball was thought of by most as the best Winter Ball yet. It's going to be interesting to see what the next year's seniors will do to try to top this years.

Bill Harvey was the National Honor Society Induction speaker which was held on Thursday April 9 1998. He used his wonderful sense of humor and life in the marine corps to talk about the four qualifications for membership in the society. The four qualifications for NHS membership are Scholarship, Leadership, Service and Character. Bill has developed his own version of these qualifications and calls them the "four pillars." He cited them as certainly worthy traits of a person with a reasonable chance of becoming a success, the "structural foundation that an individual needs to make his personal stand tall and strong, to be able to weather the inevitable storms of life." His strategy follows that, if a person is deficient in any "pillar" he should be counseled on it immediately, before his house falls in. Bill's pillars are persistence (or perseverance), punctuality, performance and pride. He advised the members of NHS to make a plan bearing these four pillars in mind, complete with short and long-term goals and be proud of it as well as who they are and where they came from.

High School Band members: Coryanna Lynam, Erica Blomquist, Lacey Anderson, Joey Parker, Rachel Shaw and Carol Chase, Director. Missing: Justine Calnan

ALL-STATE

Sophomore Justine Calnan, on the basis of her excellent audition, was selected to sing with 250 of the best singers in the state in the All-State Music Festival, held May 7-9 in Essex Jct. Her January audition involved singing her own part in a quartet, as well as melodic and rhythmic sight-reading tests. At the festival, she rehearsed with the chorus ten hours a day, attended performances by other outstanding All-State ensembles, and performed two concerts of difficult music. Earlier in the year, JC was the only Rochester student accepted to the District Music Festival in Barre.

MIDDLE SCHOOL BAND

The Rochester Middle School Band, along with the high school band and members of the community, performed two concerts and marched in three parades this year. Many members attended a jazz ensemble festival in Burlington, and funds were raised to purchase the official band T-shirt. Members during the year included: Dean Blomquist, Josh Brown, Holli Bushnell, Crystal Crete, Alisha Curley, Jessica DeLisle, Nicole Doyle, Lana Kenyon, Ashley Kolenik, John Reed, Andrea Smith, Renee Shaw, Kris Williams, and Maria Zucca.

WINOOSKI VALLEY JUNIOR DISTRICT MUSIC FESTIVAL

Five Rochester Middle School students were accepted to and participated in Jr. Districts this year: Hannah Gephart, Jenna Pelletier, Jenny Slater, Angela Wilber, and Maria Zucca. Holli Bushnell, playing alto sax, was accepted to the band. They spent an entire day in Barre rehearsing with their respective ensembles, made up of the best 7th and 8th grade singers and instrumentalists in Central Vermont. They performed a concert that night for parents and friends, with Ms. Chase accompanying the chorus and with guest conductors.
