A Wonderful Teacher, Mr. Richard Schulze!

Mr. Schulze came to Rochester High School thirty years ago in 1969. He was fresh out of Johnson State College with the enthusiasm and idealism of youth. He enjoyed working in the six different buildings of the old school, and it was there that he met his mentor Mary Ann Martin, who was a god send to him helping him through even the hardest of times.

Early in his career Mr. Schulze got involved with coaching, working first with the boys, then with the girls. He coached everything from field hockey to softball as well as officiated the sports he didn't happen to be coaching. Combine this with being the Driver's Ed teacher, and going on special week and field trips and it was a recipe for many long days and late dinners. For Mr. Schulze, it was a labor of love.

Mr. Schulze has always been a strong supporter of a sound and strong academic curriculum. He has always been proud of his students, especially when he hears that they have done well after leaving R.H.S., and maintains that Rochester has the BEST bunch of kids you can ask for. The students also think the world of Mr. Schulze...ask anyone who has had a class with him.

Once Mr. Schulze retires, his wife Mary Ann hopes that they can travel more. On their last trip, they only covered 29 states..."there are 31 more for us to go" says Mary Ann. In his new-found free time, We hope that Mr. Schulze will have more time to do the things that he really loves, such as golfing, sailing, and of course, traveling. It's hard to believe that Mr. Schulze's father had onced hoped that he would become an engineer...Lucky for everyone at R.H.S. that he decided to become a teacher Mr. Schulze, for the heart and soul you have put into your 30 years here at Rochester School, the 1999 yearbook staff has decided that this year's yearbook should rightfully be dedicated to you. Everyone who has had a class with you knows what the future classes will be missing out on! May you enjoy your retirement doing all the things that make you happy. We're going to miss you dearly!

Scholars' Bowl 1, 2, 3, 4.

Hobbies/Interests: Reading, acting, photography, having fun, hanging out with friends, watching movies, traveling, skiing, avoiding chores, driving, running.

Fondest Memories: There are too many to remember but here are a few: X-C road trips, special week freshman year, trip to PA and VA ('98), unplanned late night drives with Amanda Weeks, time spent with Amanda, hanging out with Violet and Cara, Quebec special week trip, being silly for no reason, time spent with my family and relatives, trip to Chicago and CO in 2nd grade with my Mom, Bye-Bye Birdie, making CVL All Stars junior year, grad night '97 with Amanda and Tiffany, prom '97, hanging out with Julia, Casey, and Ashley and our interesting break and lunch conversations, trip to Florida with my grandparents, Rylan, Uncle Ken, and Cousin Taylor, skiing with my dad, the times when Rylan and I got along, X-C parties (the shoes, the shaved heads . . .), skiing with Anya and Julia (those cahairlifts are cold), movies with Anya, Julia, Ashley and Casey (eating Chinese food in the car-"those people are looking at us!") hanging out with Linda, my cats, getting to see my cousin from New Zealand, warm weather, getting my driver's license, times spent in the darkroom with Julia (senior project photos), actually winning races (even when I'm the only one in my race), laughing at everyone in AP English, not having to walk up my hill in the winter, SLEEPING LATE, my puppy(she's sooo cute), and all the ones I can't remember but wish I did.

Future plans: Spend a good part of this summer in Europe. Go to Dickinson College, become a diplomat or get a well paying job that enables me to travel. Have a happy, fulfilled life. Move to Europe or New Zealand.

Favorite Artists/Songs: Radiohead, Massive Attack, Underworld, Beck, the Beatles, Pulp, Sneaker Pimps, Blur, the Chemical Brothers, Cornershop, Squirrel Nut Zippers, the Offspring, Rolling Stones, the Doors, Janis Joplin, the Who, most classical music, lots off stuff except country and opera. Teardrop-
Massive Attack, Hey Jude, Light My Fire, Lucky, Just (you do it to yourself)-Radiohead, Battleflag-Low Fidelity Allstars, Pure Morning-Placebo, Head-Tinstar.

Favorite Sayings: "Shut-up," "I don't know," "Oh that's real brilliant," "It isn't that bad," "Go away"
(frequently said to Rylan), "Hey!" "All right already," "Stop it."

Quote: "Life is what happens to you when you're busy doing other things"-John Lennon
"There is nothing either good or bad but thinking makes it so."- William Shakespeare.

Advice to Underclassmen: Don't procrastinate- it doesn't pay. Do your work, behave, and you won't have any trouble. Have fun while you're here because you will wish you didn't have to grow up, it means tons of responsibilities.

Will: I will to my brother Rylan, the ability to get his work done well and on time and the ability to make the best of school and not let it get him down. I will to Julia, the ability to get her work done the night before-not during break. I do NOT will Rylan my room when I'm gone (its mine!).

Quotes:

"Character is what you are, reputation is what other people think you are." "We talk too much, love too seldom, and lie too often." "Everyone has the right to be stupid, some just abuse the privilege." - All unknown

Advice:

"Drive Carefully. It's not only the cars that can be recalled by their maker." "All young guys who drive Saab's are cute."

"Friends are the people you love, regardless of whether you realize it." "Don't let a little dispute injure a great friendship."

Will:

I, Hallie Mendell, will to Graham the ability to "stay calm" while driving in Killington; to Jess I. the ability to always make good decisions, stick up for herself no matter what and to be nice to her mom!; to Nickey the ability to smile and be nice even though you can tell she really doesn't want to be; to Spencer, the ability to get his homework done and slide by; and to Emily the ability to run a successful class meeting, because I know she needs it!

Jesse N Mitchell

Nicknames: Load, Loadster, Loadicus, Rube, Mess, Curly Sue, Whack Daddy, "The Ugly One"

Birth: October 14, 1980

Honors/Leadership: Boys State, I think I must have made honor roll at least once or twice, too. Maybe, probably not.

Activities: Baseball 8,1,2,3,4; Soccer 2,3,4; Basketball 2,3

Hobbies/Interests: Computers, shooting stuff (I don't get to do much of it though), staring at my lava lamp, swearing at my @%$^ing computer when stuff doesn't work.

Un-fondest Memories: The Pig Latin incident, the pin incident, the counterfeiting incident, the chair painting incident, the axe handle incident (special thanks to Will), the book nazi, Sargent Stole, the bearded lady at the Rutland fair, Trev's pepé, and VTC.

Fondest Memories: Going 17-0 and winning the '98 soccer championships, Spring break '99, Quebec Special Week trip, Hiding Sonnick's car keys and forgetting where, throwing my flour child in the Quarry, the cyclops dog, playing golden eye with Trev, J, and Will a.k.a. "the guys," running away from cute girls at Price Chopper with Pevna, also, playing fatman/skinnyman hockey with Pev, beating up Jess I, throwing rocks at windows, going "covert" around the Allen's house, lying in the middle of the road at Mike's with Paul and Will, wrestling with Trevor, not going home, or being really late, 8 man NBA jam, Heather taking her shirt off, wenching, Chings, sleeping in, time with Amanda, sneaking out to go swimming at 2 a.m., stealing road cones, sleeping under the futon at Paul's, camping in bingo (all but once), talking our way out of a ticket, climbing trees while camping in bingo with Will and Catrina, hanging at work with Shawn and after work with Rory and Will, having to be baby-sat, going to the golf course in Georgia, going up to Sonnick's house, buying winning scratchies for everyone but me, finally, doing stuff with my class and being in my class, which is the best one Rochester will ever have.

Future Plans: Sleeping in.... I'll probably have to go to college. I'll likely beat up on some little kids too.

Favorite songs/artist: "Glycerine"—Bush, "The Distance," —Cake, "I Touch Myself", "Sweet Child O'Mine"—GnR, "Lightning Crashes"—Live, Goo Goo Dolls, "What's love got to do with it?"

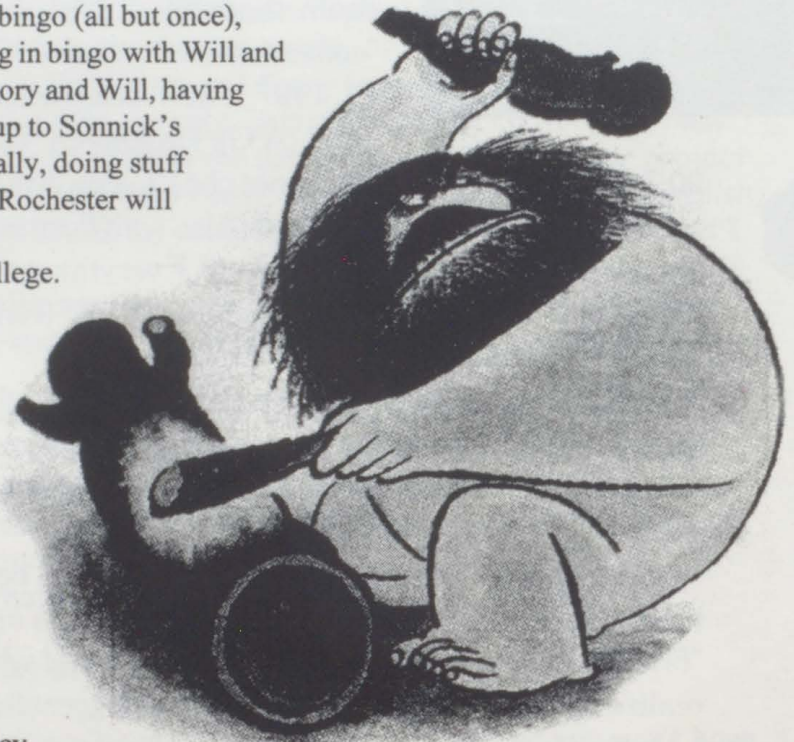

Favorite Sayings: "See you on the flip side." "I hate that."

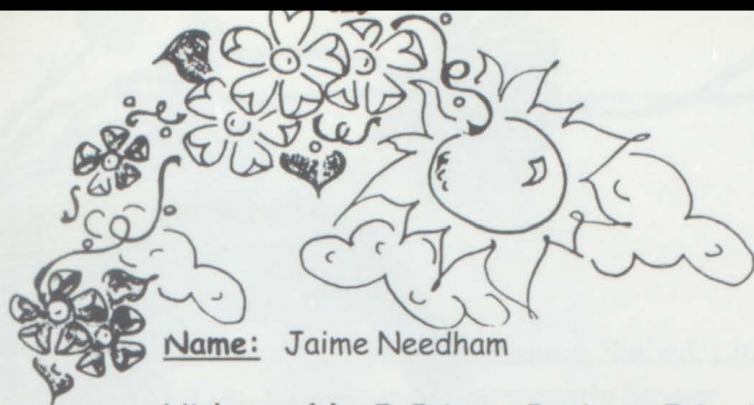

Quote: "If you can change something, then you don't need to worry about it and if you can't change it, then worrying is useless; so why worry?" & "The person who risks nothing, does nothing, has nothing, is nothing." -

Unknown

Advice: Take everything a day at a time, don't act all cuddley woo woo in public (no one wants to see it). Mr. Goupee's good at telling when you've fallen asleep. Whatever you do, stay in Rochester and enjoy high school; you only get one chance at it and you'll be kicking yourself later if you miss out.

Will: I will to Jess I., better posture (don't slouch, stick out that chest). I leave my position as the getaway driver of the "cone bandits" to Evan I leave to Melissa, anything that she can make use of. I leave behind those nudie pictures he likes so much to Matt. I leave my secret to one stellar sleeper hold to Dane. The ability to be "the wall" behind the plate and look as cool as I did to Graham, or whoever becomes catcher. A number to call after she puts the car in the ditch (or any other time for that matter) to Amanda Holtz. Finally, Krystle and Kathleen just wanted their names mentioned.

Senior Trip

Rochester High School's 105th Graduation

By Martha Slater

Blue skies and bright sunshine on Saturday, June 19, blessed the commencement exercises of the 105th class to graduate from Rochester High School. Class marshalls, Heather Klein and Graham Gephart, led the 20 graduates in their bright blue caps and gowns across the park to the traditional strains of "Pomp and Circumstance," played by the Community Band led by Larry Hamberlin. A large crowd of families, friends, and other well-wishers was on hand for the ceremony.

Rochester School Principal, Ilene Levitt, welcomed everyone to "the final RHS graduation of the millennium," and introduced the class salutatorian, Coryanna Lynam, whose heartfelt speech urged her fellow graduates to "focus on doing something to improve the world and help others. Get out there and volunteer, pick up trash, use solar power—there are plenty of things to do!" She concluded by adding, "remember that the little things you do for someone else every day mean a lot."

The RHS Class of 1999 valedictorian, Ercia Blomquist, began with a quote from Bart Simpson: "I will not fake my way through life." She noted that "life is not about being on autopilot. Don't just drift through life in a comfortable rut. Think about the issues that are relevant to you and speak up about them. Voicing your opinion is important and it's the first step to doing something about problems." Erica challenged her classmates to "be willing to take risks in life and have adventures," and ended by quoting a noted risk-taker, Albert Einstein: "Imagination is more important than knowledge."

After everyone sang the National Anthem, Justice of the Peace, Java Hubbard, led many of the graduates in the Freeman's Oath.

Bill Sugarman of the Randolph Area Vocational Center came forward to recognize the seven RHS seniors (Kenneth Bagley, Matt Eramo, Jaime Needham, Sharona Sylvester, Rita Thompson, Anna Tabor, and Dylan Waller) who had studied at RAVC this year, and noted the many awards they had received at the RAVC graduation ceremony last week.

Class advisor, Jeff Swan and faculty member George Moltz, presented the RHS awards. Sarah

Blair won the Roxanne Curtis Bowen Award, the Dick Hubbard Service, and a Wing Scholarship. Will Richardson won the Damian Sleath Award, the Marie Crovat Award, a Wing Scholarship, the Air Force Math and Science Award, and the Student Council Award. The Music Award went to Erica Blomquist, who also won a Wing Scholarship, the Stephen Bloch Memorial Award given by the White River Valley Players, and an Inner Traditions "Go For It" Award. The Martin Farms Appreciation Award was presented to Jesse Mitchell.

Hallie Mendell won the Bethel Rotary Scholarship, the Kirkpatrick Memorial Scholarship, the Upper Valley Teacher's Association Award, a Wing Scholarship, the White River Credit Union Scholarship, and a Route 100 Lion's Club Scholarship. The Alice Smith Award was presented to Danielle Bourassa, who also won the Tim "Toodles" Billings Award. The Special Faculty Award went to Jaime Needham and Cindy Stone. Cindy also won a Courage and Resiliency Award, as did Dylan Waller.

Will Chadwick won the Kyle Joseph Lizotte Award and the Tina Marie Pratt Award. The Conceptions Unlimited Award went to Coryanna Lynam, who also won the John Baker Memorial Scholarship, and the Clarice Dunn Memorial Award. Jeremy Clauson won the Oatmeal Studios Award, the George F. Johnson

Council Knights of Columbus Award, and an Inner Traditions "Go For It" Award. The Elizabeth Ann Murray Award went to Matt Eramo. Trevor Klein won the Edwin Harvey Memorial Award and a Route 100 Lion's Club Scholarship. The Rodney Johnson Memorial Award went to Alicia Gendron, who also won a Wing Scholarship.

Senior Class President, Hallie Mendell, presented the class gift to the school: a lilac bush to be planted in Kate's Garden on the south side of the school building.

Martin Tewksbury (known to the students as "Mr. T") gave the charge to the class. Mr. Tewksbury, who now teaches in Sharon, noted that "this class was in kindergarten when I came to Rochester...be mindful of the great adventure of life as you make choices, and whatever choice you make, be ready to accept the consequences...Don't let other people's choices control your mood or your destiny...Live in the present. It's okay to reflect on the past, but not to dwell on it. One of the essentials of a successful life is to be able to close the gate on a past experience and walk away from it...Trust your intuition. It'll be one of the best friends you'll have." He concluded his remarks by quoting from the poem, "Don't Quit": "success is failure turned inside out."

Principal Levitt and Rochester School Board Chairman, Becky Donnet, presented the diplomas to the graduates, and Dylan Waller led his classmates in the traditional "turning of the tassels." "Pomp and Circumstance" was heard for a final time as the graduates recessed, stopping to ring the big old school bell and toss their hats skyward, before they formed a receiving line on the west edge of the park (where there were hugs, kisses, and more than a few tears) and posed for photographs.

Cabaret!

The theme of this years Cabaret production was "It Don't Mean a Thing if it Ain't Got that Swing". It came complete with a cast of 21 girls, one very brave boy, and a genuine swing band! The show was a huge success too. The combined Whitcomb and Rochester cast and band had so much camaraderie that many of them are still friends today. The show included many solos from both schools, spectacular dance numbers choreographed by the fabulous Karen Amirault, a band led by Alice Weston who also arranged much of the music, and even the teachers from Bethel and Rochester got into the act with a number of their own. The production as a whole was quite the accomplishment considering the limited number rehearsals that everyone was able to attend.

The solo numbers were the highlight of the show. Molly Doria performed a Gershwin piece called "But Not For Me", Emily Mendell sang "Blue Moon", Maria Zucca vocalized a version of "Summertime", a duet of "I've Got Rhythm", accomplished by Molly Doria and Maria Zucca, and last but not least, a saxophone quintet consisting of Holli

Bushnell, Erica Blomquist, Justine Calnan, from Rochester, and Jason Turk and Eben Cowen from Whitcomb performed a version of Duke Ellington's "It Don't Mean a Thing if it Ain't got that Swing", the title piece of the show arranged by Alice Weston.

(The show was incredible, and we're all looking forward to next year.)

Middle School Drama

By Julia Reed

The Middle Schoolers sure have had a busy year drama wise. The first play that they did was entitled A Child's History of England that was, shall we say, "smashing."

The play took viewers back into history to view the rise and fall of kings and queens in England's past. The story was viewed through the eyes of a small boy who met Charles Dickens, who accidentally found himself in the boy's room. Dickens, played brilliantly by Maria Zucca, was appalled by how little the boy knew of England's past, so therefore felt entitled to fill him in. The history of the country was portrayed by the rest of the Middle School, who did a splendid job taking of the roles of the many royal faces of England. Written and directed by Maura Campbell, this performance gets rave reviews from all who saw it.

Up next was the AHA! Presentation of An Eyewitness in History, which took viewers back to the beginning of America through the eyes of competitive reporters of our time who were trying to get the best story. They quickly found out how different life was back in the olden days, and saw a completely different side of American life. Most of the Middle School was a part of this show. This AHA production was led by artist in residence Ryah Christensen McCloglin, a former Rochester High School student who now lives in Austin, Texas.

Most recently, the beautifully moving play Crossing the Threshold, written and directed by Maura Campbell was performed by middle school students. This play concentrated on the real life story of a woman named Sarah Skarrow, who was diagnosed with Cerebral Palsy at a young age. Despite the odds, and encountering many tragic hurdles along the way, Sarah, (played by Maria Zucca) with the assistance of her beloved horse Ringo (Played by John Reed) manages to live a wonderful life (to this day—the real Sarah Skarrow is still alive). Narrated by Holli Bushnell, all of the actors in this play did a wonderful job, and if you saw the play you would agree, that there was not a dry eye in the house when Sarah's horse Ringo draws his last breath. Here's to a great group of Middle School actors who did more plays this year than the High School! Bravo!

Music!

By Music Teacher Carol Cronce

MS Chorus- The 1998-1999 MS chorus is made up of 30 students, more than half of whom are from the very strong eighth-grade class. They sang some difficult three-part music at their December concert and June concert under the direction of Mrs. Cronce, and accompanied by Mrs. Bushnell. They worked on improving their music-reading skills, and sang songs spanning five centuries. They sang in many languages, including Latin, Serbo-Croatian, and Hebrew.

MS Chorus: from left to right, top: Hannah Gephart, Jess Dunham, Alina Schenkman, Lana Kenyon, Carmen Denison, Molly Doria, Holli Bushnell, Andrea Smith, Maria Zucca, and Renee Shaw. Seen in the middle row: Courtney Severy, Crystal Crete, Alisha Curly, and Coral Allen. Bottom: Danielle Cutting, Valerie Mitchell, Devin Bourassa, Melony Longo, Staci Cutting, Jay Moltz, and Dean Blomquist

MS Band- The 10 members of the middle school band worked hard to improve their practice routine, their knowledge of music theory, and their ensemble listening skills. They performed at the December concert with high school and adult guest musicians. In the spring semester they worked on band music, chamber music in duos and quartets, and acted as mentors for the upcoming musicians from elementary school. Many students came to rehearsals after school to be part of the new, extra-curricular jazz ensemble, which performed at Open House in September, the concert in December (plus Cabaret). They also performed their annual community service of marching with Rochester's veterans in the Memorial Day parade on their holiday.

HS Band and chorus- Although chorus and band are offered for one semester each during the school day, most interested students work independently with Mrs. Cronce or other mentors to stay active in music throughout the year. Erica Blomquist, Justine Calnan, Emily Mendell, Lacey Anderson, and Rachel Shaw played with at least the concert band, some with jazz band, even when not officially enrolled in the course. The students enrolled in chorus have chosen some difficult three-part cappella music, spanning from Palestrin (16th century) to new music. They have excellent skills and are interested in knowing more about theory, proper singing technique, reading music, and choral literature.

High School Chorus: Rachel McGrath, Justine (JC) Calnan, and Emily Mendell

Winooski District Music Festival

Justine Calnan and Erica Blomquist auditioned for districts in October by singing before adjudicators as a duet. Since no sopranos from Rochester auditioned, they each sang with a student from Whitcomb.

Both received high scores at their audition and were accepted to the festival.

The festival was November 19 and 20, at Spaulding High School in Barre. The chorus participated in intense rehearsals (Thursday from 9:30 until 3:00, and Friday from 9:30 until 5:30). After dinner they performed with the chorus to a packed auditorium- probably 600 friends and family attended the concert by the chorus, concert band, and junior high jazz band.

The first day of rehearsal, JC auditioned to sing in a small solo chorus, and was chosen to sing in the Mozart Kyrie!

Robert DeCormier directed the chorus of 120 of the best singers in Central Vermont, with Mrs. Cronic as accompanist. Mr. DeCormier at age 76 is now the director of the Vermont Symphony Orchestra Chorus. He is known around the world for his many years of conducting prestigious choruses such as the New York Choral Society and The Robert DeCormier Singers. He has written music for chorus, television, opera, and Broadway and has published hundreds of arrangements of choral music. He has conducted choruses all over the world. These students were extremely fortunate to have the opportunity to work with him at a District Festival. He was very demanding, but students enjoyed working with him, and he, with them.

JC was also chosen to attend the All-State Music Festival later in the year.

Middle School students also attended a District Music Festival. Holli Bushnell represented Rochester school instrumentally on alto saxophone while Dean Blomquist, Molly Doria, Hannah Gephart, Anna Lary and Maria Zucca represented the choral program.

One Acts

As usual, this year Rochester School had three fantastic one-act plays. "The Sex Lives of Super Heroes" the "festival play", the one that went to the one-act Play Festival in March, was directed by Marty Gephart. The cast included Trevor Klein, Erica Blomquist, Sarah Blair, Heather Klein and Emily Mendell. The main characters used exaggerated fantasy and comedy as a relief from the difficulties of everyday relationships. Trevor and Erica worked together amazingly well, and had the audience rolling with laughter, especially at the end. Trevor's flying leap off the stage, and "Bat Girl" (Heather) presenting a plaque put the finishing touches on the amusing performance.

The second play directed by Anthony Goupee, was a comedy based on gender equity in Shakespeare's play's. "Shakespeare's women" meet to discuss their 'father' and whether or not he is fair with them. He always mentions men first, and doesn't have respect for women in general. Several witty remarks express how each individual character feels about the subject. Lady Macbeth (played by Justine Calnan) feels the most strongly that women in Shakespeare are practically forgotten, or are just to in love to care. Kate, the Shrew (Jessica Matthews) agrees with her, while Juliet Capulet (Amanda Wilber), Cleopatra (Jenna Pelletier) and Desdemona (Coryanna Lynam) disagree. Juliet's maid, (Casey Turk) seemed to be the only neutral character. King Henry IV and Petruchio (Matt Richardson and Evan Chadwick) respectively represented the male side of the argument.

As the play progressed, the characters grew more intense and the play grew more interesting. The lines each person had portrayed exactly what what kind of person they were. Anyone would agree that the actors did a fantastic job with the Shakespearean language, and transformed the words on the page into a play we all enjoyed.

Last, but certainly not least was "Below the Waist", written and directed by Rochester's drama teacher, Maura Campbell. The play featured Julia Reed, Roy Kinsley and Amanda Campbell. Roy was a troubled vampire who went to see an extremely distracted psychiatrist, Julia. Amanda played the amusing secretary.

As a whole, the play was extremely active, and Julia didn't let the pace down at all. The vampire, confused about his identity, was trying desperately to get the doctor to focus on his problems, but the psychiatrist just kept finding distractions. Extreme movements and bizarre facial expressions made the whole play seem like a climax, but also made it exciting and funny.

The variety of plays made the evening an exceptional one. All the one-acts went smoothly and had talented actors and actresses. The students invested lots of time and hard work into these plays, and they deserved the wild applause they received. The amount of talent in Rochester School is amazing, not to mention long lasting. We should be able to look forward to even more enjoyable plays in the future.

Prom '99

This Year's Prom was held at the Brandon Inn in Brandon Vermont. The Juniors decided to make the theme of this year's prom "Sun Shower" and posted a contest offering $50.00 to the person who made the best "sun". The winner of the contest was Hallie Mendell, who made a sun out of macaroni.

The night went along beautifully. Finally, at 11:00, the Prom King and Queen were announced. Last years winners Eric Holtz and BJ Bowen walked through the crowd with the royal crowns and finally placed them on the heads of Trevor Klein and Alicia Gendron. The night even had the great touch of a shower (or rather a downpour), but that didn't stop the beautifully dressed prom goers from living the night to the fullest. This years prom had D.J. . Tickets were $15.00 a piece and $25.00 for a couple.

Resiliency Day

April 8, 1999

By Paul Dickin

"What a blast, and I actually learned something!" So yelled Julia Reed at the end of an intense but enjoyable day in the Middle and High Schools. And it was. The day was an eclectic mix of discussion, artistic endeavor, music and mayhem.

So what exactly is resiliency? Well, briefly it describes a set of forty assets that we all possess, to varying degrees, that define how well we are each able to cope with life's knocks and take advantage of any opportunities that come our way. These assets may be divided into two types: internal assets refer to the resolve we can produce from within (self-concept assets,) while external assets identify those supports that we may access within our family, school and community.

Sound a bit dry? Not one bit! Kick off the day with some absurd British comedy skits; bring some presenters who've been down and bounced back (a former criminal, a former drug addict, the parent of a child who suffered from anorexia nervosa, and a group talking about domestic violence); add a sprinkle of ways to express what resilience looks like (through drama, sculpture, journaling, and song); and have a group of students from far-off lands (well, Rutland and Rutland anyway,) and you have a learning party. Throw in an outdoor barbecue and a live band and you have gourmet learning. Garnish with a snack-infested class discussion, and we are talking haute cuisine!

So is that it? By George no! Resiliency day itself marked only the beginning of learning about our available supports and ourselves. The teachers who brought it to the school (Paul Dickin, Bobbi Rood, and Cindy White,) have more up their respective sleeves. But for now, we leave you on a few memorable quotes that may capture the day's festivities in a nutshell:

"It was brilliant!" -Amanda Wilber

"Mr. Dickin is an understated genius" -Ilene Levitt

"Dickin and Bowen are going places" -Variety

"These guys put on a heck of a show!" -Time Out

"I wish every day was like today!" -The entire Senior Class

"I laughed until I stopped" H.R.H. the Queen of England

"It was a day that will live on...and on...and..." -Cindy White

"What kind of talk is that?" -John Cleese

"Can we do it again next year?" -Remy Lary

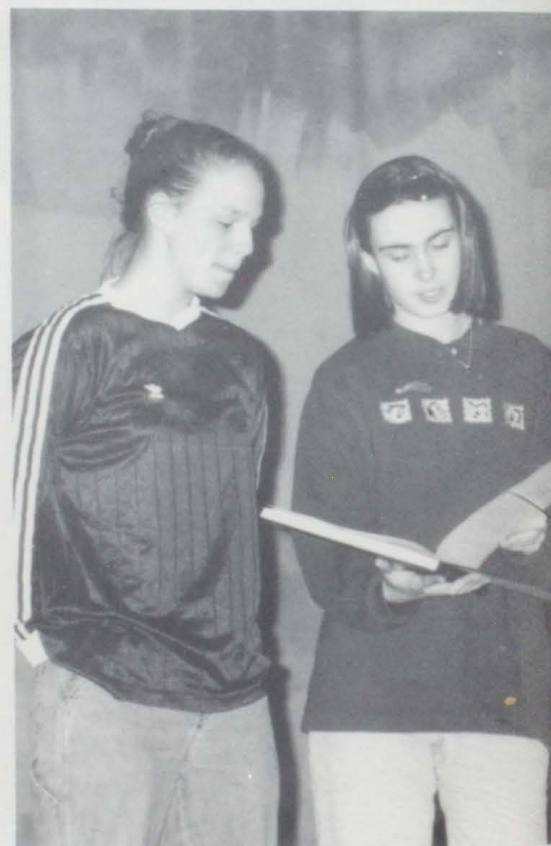

"I've never known a day like it!" -Jeffery "Swannee" Swan

"Where's my money?" -Ethan Bowen

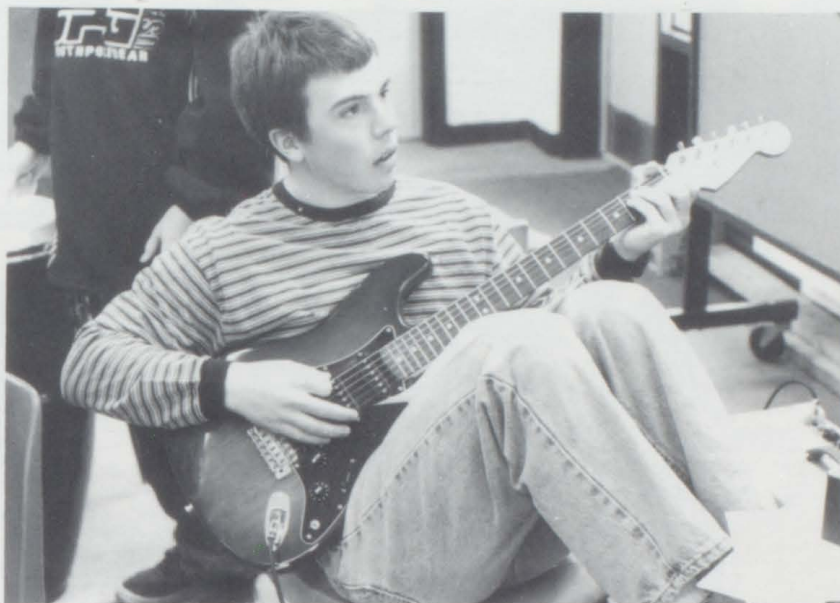

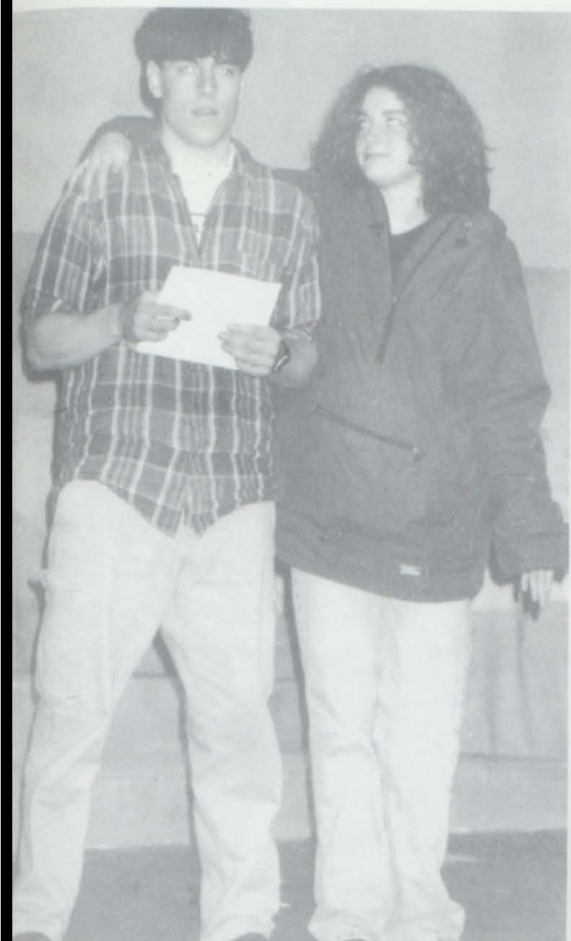

"Okay Paul, enough quotes already" -Julia Reed

Valentines Ball

This year, after much delay, the Senior class put on a spectacular Winter Ball (A.K.A. Valentine's day ball because of it's closeness to Valentine's day.) The Jesters played rockin' music, which practically everyone there danced to. This Ball required semi-formal dress attire, which everyone took advantage of. Both Middle and High Schoolers sported lovely gowns and suits, but unfortunately, no tuxedos (those things are expensive!) Next year we hope for the same great time as this year--or even better...If they're up to the challenge!

The National Honor Society

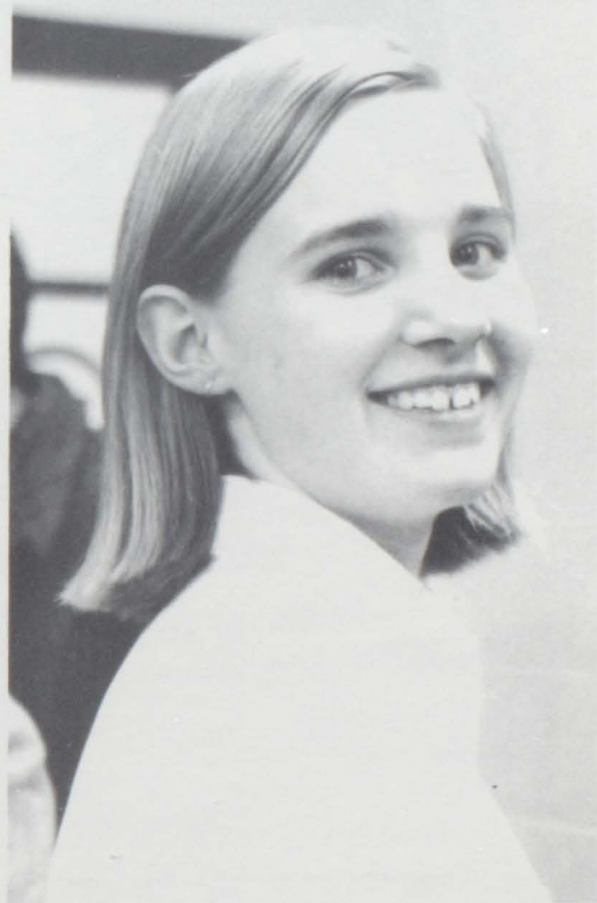

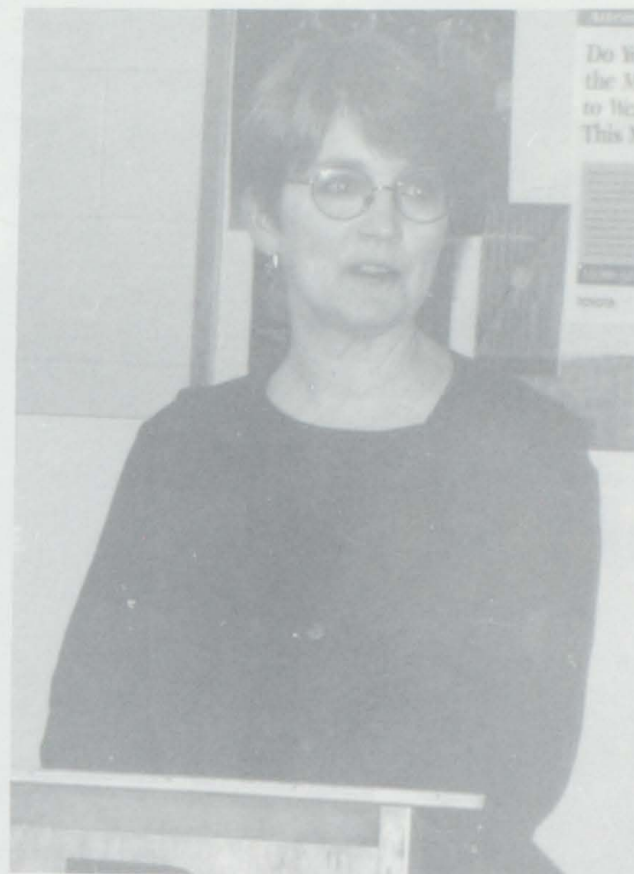

This year on April 8th, the National Honor Society induction ceremony was held. Ashley Collins, Emily Mendell, Melissa Mitchell, Casey Terk, and Amanda Wilber joined current members Sarah Blair, Justine Calnan, Graham Gephart, Coryanna Lynam, Jess Matthews, Hallie Mendell, and Justine Petrillo to increase the size of the George E. Lamb chapter.

During the induction ceremony, Dorothy Robson gave an interesting speech about her life and the many different people that she has encountered. She used her speech to explore the uniqueness and comfort level of Rochester, talk about the many community service projects that she has participated in, and to congratulate both the new and old members.

Each member of the National Honor Society must excel in four areas—scholarship, leadership, service, and character. They need to set a good example for other students by showing concern for their school and community, and by expressing their opinions in responsible ways. Inductees will be expected to keep up these high standards to keep their spot in the National Honor Society. We wish them good luck in continuing their academic and overall excellence!

Boys Varsity Basketball

by Coach Jeff Swan

The Rochester Varsity Boys Basketball team had a successful year despite their overall record (7-15.) At the beginning of the year, the team discussed the goals that they wanted to achieve (one being to reach the finals at the Barre auditorium,) and the areas that they needed to improve. Throughout the season, the team experienced "emotional highs" such as winning the Websterville Baptist Holiday tournament, keeping up and almost upsetting powerhouse Williamstown at home. Another "high" was beating South Royalton after an overtime at V.T.C.

As a team, We learned many aspects of the game including how a team should play together. Some people would say that we had experience on the team (four seniors, and three returning players from last year's team,) while others argued how young we were (three sophomores and three freshmen.) I felt that our team had a great mix of players. They were coachable, respectful and eager to win. I had a great time coaching a great team. In my rookie year, I will miss the four seniors who will be graduating this year. I also look forward to most of my team returning for next year's season. Watch out sports fans...I can smell the hotdogs cooking at the Barre Auditorium. Next year.

This year's Middle School boys' basketball team was comprised of five or six devoted members (depending on when you saw them). Danny Wood broke his arm in the middle of the season and was no longer able to play. They had a season of one win and ten losses, but it was learning experience for the boys. Coach Michael Coad, who is missing from the picture, had his sophomore season this year. He worked with his team with great enthusiasm and even though they didn't win much, they were victorious in their spirit and determination. The fifth, sixth and seventh graders will join up with the team next year and I'm sure that they will have a winning season to report.

Middle School Girls' Basketball

This year's Middle School Girls' Basketball team has improved upon last years record quite a bit. They won six out of twelve games they played, including two against Sharon Academy, Randolph, Tunbridge, and two games against Chelsea. It was the Sophomore season for the girls' coach Tim Dunham, and he proved himself with some new strategies. The girls had fun this year, and although most of the squad was comprised of eighth graders who will be moving into high school next year, two out of the fourteen girls that were in seventh grade and will certainly prove to be a promising base for next years team. I know we'll have an even better season next year, as our skills continue to improve.

Girls Varsity Soccer

by Coach Paul Dickin

The girls varsity football (soccer) team had an historic season, winning the CVL's for the first time ever. The Rockets posted a league record of ten wins, one loss and one tie. Goals were plentiful on offense (a total of thirty-four in twelve games) and scarcely given up in defense (ten in twelve games). The league title was officially ours on Friday, October 9th. The players heard the timer count down the last ten seconds at Chelsea, and began to celebrate our 3-1 win just ahead of the final whistle. In truth, our home victory against Thetford two days earlier, also with a 3-1 score, was the tougher game, and turned out to be one of the finest performances by any Rochester sports team.

It was clear in the beginning of the season that the Rochester Rockets were going to be a good team. Alicia Gendron, co-captain and returning all-state midfield maestro was the engine of the team. Her ability to stamp her authority in midfield freed up the Rockets' creative offense and bolstered the defense. Her most memorable game was against Thetford Academy, when she played their star player completely out of the game. Ahead of her at center forward was co-captain Sarah Blair, whose emotional return from injury last season was inspirational; so was her play, as Sarah notched eight goals, including a hat-trick on the road at Blue Mt., with performances that earned her all-state status.

Keeping goal was senior Sharona Sylvester, who achieved five shutouts. Reveling in her last season, Sharona played hard and took every goal scored on her personally, showing her passion for the game and for this team. Co-senior, co-keeper Catrina Holtz earned playing time in the net, on the line, and just about every position. Catrina proved to be to be a tenacious, versatile team player who offered the Rockets an individual "special team" whatever the situation. The fifth senior on the team was midfielder Hallie Mendell. She had a remarkable season. Hallie's aggressive tackling, head-up support game possession, and feisty attitude was all that one could hope for in half-back.

Junior Heather Klein had a season she and our supporters will long remember. Leading goalscorer with nine, she added eight assists, and a wealth of creative ball skills on the wing and in front of the goal. She fully deserved her all-state status this year. A second junior, Justine Petrillo had the biggest pair of size five shoes to fill at sweeper. She rose above and beyond the challenge as she marshaled the mean Rocket's defense with vision, composure and old-fashioned hard work. She was also the only player to play every minute of every game. She was aided and embetted by another junior at left back, Nickey Drgan. Nickey showed passion and conviction in every game. Her speed and tackling were outstanding as she fought with every ounce of energy to keep other teams from ever seeing the goal, let alone taking shots at it! Jessica Matthews returned this year, and what an impact she had. Playing intelligent football, reading the game well, and screening every striker outside and away from goal rounded out a wonderful back three for the team. Our last junior was Kim Laird. Kim's desire to play the game, her hard work and her goalkeeping skills were a great asset to the team as she modeled true sportsmanship and the spirit of the game.

The depth of this team extends well into the sophomore class. Kathleen McLoughlin picked up where she left off as a freshman last season by notching six goals and being a constant threat to the opposition. Her pace and shooting abilities are quite extraordinary. Of great assistance to her and many others was Krystle Clarke. Featuring a fantastic passing game, a powerful shot, and some of the most aggressive, persistant tackling that we've seen on a girls football team, Krystle's talent was key in winning game after game. So too was the play of stopper Amanda Holtz. Playing stopper requires all of the skills needed in defense, as well as all of the skills needed in offense, plus a football mind to combine the two together smoothly. Amanda has shown all of this, hitting goal kicks faultlessly up to the halfway line, and even scoring two shots from 30 yards out! Two other sophomores improved greatly since last year and would have seen much more action in any other year. Amanda Wilber showed excellent dribbling and tackling skills, and flexible to play anywhere. Jessica Iverson demonstrated similar talent and similar desire to play for the Rockets. She is finding herself a niche as a promising midfielder for next year.

Our freshman were Jenny Slater and Lyndsey Heatley. Lyndsey showed emerging dribbling and shooting skills that will serve the team well, while Jenny stepped seamlessly into games at full back. Both showing a real sense of the game at such young ages.

Behind the scenes we had a positive support staff. Emily Mendell and Rachel Shaw keeping statistics and cheering loud. Emily e-mailed the players encouraging them and kept their spirits high.

I would like to thank Andy Sak for being goalkeeping coach and Neal Cronce for providing a key defense early in the year. It was a great impact on such a talented team.

Kathleen McLoughlin

CVL Champions, 10-1-1!!!

Boys' Varsity Soccer

The Rochester Rockets made history during the 1998 season by becoming the Vermont Division IV State Champions for the first time since boys soccer began. The Rockets added more merit to their season by claiming the Central Vermont League title and holding a perfect record of 17-0-0, their only undefeated season.

Winning the regular season games through the year did not come easily by any means, yet the Rockets did what needed to be done every time. The season wound to a close, and when the air horn ending the semifinal game against Proctor sounded, the Rockets had bought themselves the ticket to the championship game in Montpelier for the second year in a row.

The Rockets faced an undefeated United Christian Academy; the two teams battled evenly for the first half. UCA scored early in the second half, and for only the second time all season, the Rockets were behind on the scoreboard. The Rockets rallied on a Trevor Klein goal, and with two minutes left in the second overtime, Trevor found the net again of a Dylan Waller pass to claim the ball and cup from Vermont Principals' Association.

The Rockets won the championship without a huge bench or even the ability to substitute often.

Instead, the fourteen players trained hard and relied on their skills learned from years past and present. A strong freshmen contingent of Dane Lary, Shane Palmer, Kris Williams, Remy Lary, and Josh Rhoades proved their skill and worth on the bench and the field. Sophomores Evan Chadwick and Matt Richardson and junior Graham Gephart strengthened a Rocket defense. Seniors Trevor Klein, Will Chadwick, Dylan Waller, Matt Eramo, William Richardson, and Jesse Mitchell comprised the backbone of the team, leading both an offense and defense that scored 35 goals and only let in 5.

The highlight of the year, other than Kris's fall and some really great goals, had to be the joy of the championship win, celebrating with the team and all of the townspeople that supported us through the season.

1998 Boys' Soccer Champs!

For the second time in many years, the boys Varsity Soccer team made it to the boys Division IV soccer finals at Montpelier high School. The boys entered the game undefeated and kept it that way with a 2-1 win in overtime. Their opponent, United Christian academy took the lead in the early second half, but Trevor Klein came right back for Rochester with a spectacular goal from outside the box to even it up. A great team effort and Trevor's amazing goal brought Rochester High School it's first ever soccer championship win and title of undefeated with a 17-0-0 season.

Led by 8th graders Tim Grady, Danny Wood, Travis Gendron, and Zach LeClair, the Middle School boys' soccer team struggled with the challenges of a season that included only two victories.

This team which included six, fifth-grade players, had to constantly remind themselves that winning was not the most important goal of the season. Learning to get along with teammates and improve each game was the toughest hurdle.

The highlight of the season was an exciting 2-1 victory, at home, over a Whitcomb team that had soundly thrashed them, 8-0 in our first game of the season.

Middle School Girls' Soccer

Rochester Middle School Girl's soccer team consisted of seventeen talented, terrific and enthusiastic players. They were fortunate to have Danielle LeClair and Courtney Severy as co-managers this year. Our sixth and seventh graders showed much talent and potential for the coming years. Rookie goalie, Brittany Roberts, racked up 25 saves.

Twelve team members were eighth graders who will be moving up to the varsity team next fall; a big loss, in many ways, for coach Terry Paquette. Starting goalie Angela Wilber had thirty-one saves, as well as two shots on goal and one assist as she also played mid-fielder. Our highest scorer was Hannah Gephart with six goals and fourteen shots on goal. Alina Schenkman with four goals, had two assists and nineteen shots on goal. She also showed talent as fill-in goalie in our last game with five saves. As striker, Devin Bourassa had two goals, one assist and eight shots on goal. Melony Longo scored the first goal of the season and despite ankle problems, put in another goal, had an assist and twelve shots on goal.

They couldn't have done it without the talent and support of Maria Zucca, Jess Dunham, Anna Lary, Lana Kenyon, Jen Belisle, Andy Smith, and Danielle Cutting. This group of girls always worked hard and played as a team. We'll truly miss these ladies next year!
